Student Unit Conference

The WAFCS Student Unit held their annual Student Conference this past month. "Focus on the Future" was a great success. Sixteen students from both UW-Stout and UW-Stevens Point gathered together to swap curriculum, learn about interviewing, attend a brewery tour, and make a community quilt.

Dr. Pam Bork of Stevens Point gave a presentation on interviewing. As a former principal in the Stevens Point School District, Dr. Bork has had many years of experience working with pre-service teachers as well as those interviewing for jobs. Dr. Bork's presentation gave some helpful advice on how knowing ourselves as teachers is one of the most important aspects of interviewing.

As a group we also created squares for a community quilt. This was an excellent opportunity for student collaboration. Those with more refined sewing skills were able to help others. The quilt turned out great. With the help of Crystal Bell a finished quilt will be auctioned off during the WAFCS Annual Conference in March.

The students who attended the conference were also able to participate in a curriculum swap. This was an awesome opportunity to share talents and ideas about lesson planning and class activities. Overall it was a great conference.
